Play Program Needs Youth's Cooperation

Parents interested in an organized and properly supervised recreational program for Princeton children, especially those who have given considerable time and thought to the project, are at loss how to proceed . . . because boys and girls, approached through the schools, show little or no real interest in the matter.

Of course there is expressed desire for a swimming pool by a good many of our young people. Others indicate they would like to play golf. A few would go for tennis, they say; but as for a rounded, balanced recreational program which would benefit the mass of our young folk . . . individuals contracted by leaders of the movement indicate scant interest and no cooperation.

Perhaps it is too much to expect adolescents to see the broad picture of play for all those who need it. Certainly it is only natural for boys and girls to want a place to swim here at home, when transportation to other swimming facilities is curtailed. But there can be little enthusiasm for the sort of program Princeton needs among the adults who must promote, organize, manage and pay for it, if the youngsters themselves evince less than an ardent desire for it.

That Victory Not Be Unduly Delayed

The Leader has been asked to give fullest cooperation in the April War Bond Campaign, slogan for which is "You've Done Your Bit, Now Do Your Best." The national quota this time is $13,000,000,000 and, while Caldwell county's allotment has not been assigned as this is written, maximum effort is indicated for the April selling as our forces begin to make their power felt in Tunisia and in ever-growing air raids over Germany.

Last week two American generals of the Air Corps issued statements indicating that soon our air power in England will be so great that our planes will be able to bomb the Reich in daytime in the same ratio that the RAF wreaks vengeance at night. The generals said it would make no difference even if the Germans knew in advance our planes were coming, that every city and town in Nazidom would feel the force of our biggest bombs.

There has been warning too that our men in North Africa still do not have everything they need, in sufficient quantities, to do the big job so vital to Allied success there. We are forewarned too that casualties will be heavy before Rommel is chased out and a bridge-head can be breached into "the soft belly of the Axis," which may be southern France or Italy's boot-toe.

As our forces engage the desperate foe, who now surely begins to see there is nothing but defeat ahead, we cannot do less than our best to see to it that everything General MacArthur's men and General Eisenhower's forces need goes to them in abundance . . . and of course, the sinews of war are costly.

We think few here have bought War Bonds in sufficient volume as yet really to deny themselves much. The time is here now when such buying is imperative in order that victory need not be unduly delayed.

Realization That Uncle Sam Is Us

As we enter a month which sees the Nation embarked upon a War Bond sales effort far surpassing anything the world has ever known, it is encouraging to hear talk upon our streets, in stores and offices, yes and even in homes, which indicates many of our people are awakening at long last to realization that everything "the government" does must be paid for by the individuals who live under it.

All our lives a good many of us have been accustomed to look upon Uncle Sam as a benevolent, protective old gent who had lots of money and who therefore was fair game. It has likewise been the accepted practice to gyp our venerable Uncle whenever possible, or at least to get all we could out of him. The idea being that what the government paid for didn't hurt anybody close home, or us.

Which, taken with the numerous "benefits" dished out by the New Deal, has resulted in many a raid, large and small, upon the public purse.

And this is now coming to be recognized for what it is: Robbery of ourselves; or at the very least, extravagance that costs dearly in the long run.

Right now of course we all want to get along with the winning of the war as rapidly as possible, to save as many lives as we can of the boys who have left our community to help keep it ours; and we have no wish or desire to spare the cost of victory. But it is very painful to large numbers of our people to be caught between the grindstones of organized "blobs" in their fights for higher prices, when we are forced to face increased costs on every hand, buy War Bonds, pay Victory taxes, help the Red Cross, the Crippled Children's Society and every other worthy agency . . . with the same fixed income we had before the war.

That's what is putting many small concerns out of business, threatens to ruin many others, stalls individual effort and enterprise.

Therefore we are hopeful the President's new appointee, Chester C. Davis, may be able to do a satisfactory job in controlling food prices and in successfully working out our farmers' problems.

For the other way lies inflation, vastly greater deprivation and suffering for the majority of us, and, if evidence of World War I is worth anything, a depression after the war which would be worse than anything we have known.

Good Highway Commissioner

(Editor Tom Underwood in Lexington Herald.)

If J. Lyter Donaldson of Carrollton, had submitted his resignation as state highway commissioner for any other purpose than to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, The Herald would say that he has made an outstanding record as the chief of the department of public roads in Kentucky. This being the case, in all frankness and fairness, we feel that it is only fair to say just what would be said if there were no political implications involved.

Unfortunately the war, bringing a far-reaching interruption of the major part of the road program, did not permit him to carry forward to completion a plan that had been fully developed to complete the thorough roads and bridges that are the revenue-producers and the most heavily used traffic thoroughfares in a way that the results would stand as absolutely convincing to any one of the effectiveness of the program undertaken. Fortunately, however, the interruption of the war has not been used as an alibi for avoiding the obligations to the future or for scuttling the program. Indeed surveys, plans and studies are now being continued to make possible the early resumption of large-scale highway construction carrying out the original aims.

Mr. Donaldson's chief purpose as highway commissioner has been to cut down overhead in comparison with construction, to develop roadbuilding upon a scientific program based upon surveys and to build a lasting type of roads where they will serve the largest numbers.

It is impossible to please everyone with the details of a road-building program and Mr. Donaldson's strongest point is that he has not tried to do this. On the whole his administration has been sound, his major objectives have been kept well in mind and the highway department has been able to retain the confidence of the public.

Viewing the work of the highway department only, we feel that Mr. Donaldson has rendered a valuable service to the state and one that merits appreciation on the part of the public. The duties of such an office are arduous, and the responsibilities are grave. Mr. Donaldson has handled them well and merits the thanks and approval due to a competent public official.

Kentucky has a real stake in the Tunisian campaign, for the American army which this week is fiercely battling to cut off Rommel's retreating Afrika Corps from the sea is led by the First Armored Division, trained at Ft. Knox and having many Kentuckians in its ranks. Names and organizations of these men cannot be given here but Princeton and Caldwell county are represented in the history-making drive led by Lieut. General George S. Patton, Jr.

Business got so brisk with Todd Lear, Lyon county fish vendor who does business each Monday on the corner across from the hitchlot, that he put his stock in his truck, locked doors and windows, told would-be customers he'd "be back after a while," and departed. They were taking fish away from Todd faster than he could collect. Its the war!

Always knew Johnny Graham had plenty of energy . . . but even so, was slightly surprised to see him washing windows of the county agent's office last Thursday.

Not long since, Stegar Dollar, visiting The Leader office, told me he was youngest man working in the Bowling Green shoe store and that he got down first, swept up and dusted the place before the other workers arrived. I'd have to see that to believe.

One of our lady friends says point rationing is easy to define. "You point to what you want and the grocer says you can't have it."

War rationing brought a novelty to our table one night recently . . . and put the red light on supper's progress, while the boys investigated intricacies of the oddity . . . Artichokes. I had eaten them as a boy, in California, but our kids had never seen 'em before. Frankly, I think they'd be just as

First Girl Marine In War Of 1812

Associated Press Features

Girl Marines, now being commissioned to aid the Leatherneck corps, have a ready-made patron saint in Lucy Brewer, a spirited lass who served as a Marine for three years during the War of 1812.

There wasn't any auxiliary service in those days, so Lucy had to don male apparel and somehow pass a physical examination as a boy. Apparently no one discovered her deception, for under the name "Private George Baker" she was enrolled as a fighting Leatherneck and served aboard the frigate "Constitution" in three major sea engagements.

Years later, after she had been honorably discharged and settled down as a New York housewife, Lucy told of her experiences, in a book called "The Female Marine"—not recommended as a handbook for Uncle Sam's new girl Marines. In it Lucy tells of her narrowest escape:

During a battle off the coast of Brazil, it seems, she fell overboard and was rescued in a state of unconsciousness. As she lay on the deck, her clothes were being removed by some of her shipmates to make way for a dry uniform. Detection of the brave girl's ruse seemed imminent. But, according to Lucy: "They had nearly divested me of my outer garments when I mustered enough strength to tell them I felt able to change clothes myself."

Being a female Marine in 1812 was far more complicated than it is today.

happy if they never had to eat 'em again!

Every good citizen of the town and county may well take pride in the 1943 program of Caldwell County Farm Bureau, adopted at annual meeting of this organization recently and circulated last week in printed form. We here are essentially agricultural, enjoying a measure of prosperity ONLY when our farmers do well. Dedication of our farm folk, in the Farm Bureau's 1943 program, to producing vital food in the spirit which made this Nation great, takes a pattern all should subscribe to with pleasure and deep satisfaction.

The Cave City gent who has five children and suggests the State's schools all be closed for 2 years as an aid to the war is our boys' idea of a proper father.

Pennyriler is continually amazed at amount of punishment some good citizens can take . . . and then come back for more. A limited number of people here can always be counted upon to lift up on the necessary jobs; and also, to get them done extremely well. Princeton is very fortunate in this respect.

Few here have had to contend with more restrictions or greater handicaps in business, as result of war, than B. T. Daum, popular proprietor of the Creamery . . . And it is good to know the icecream boss is improving after a dangerous illness and again is able to sit on the lid part of the time.

Good friend here gave me a tip on a swell news story recently, in confidence, which meant of course it couldn't be used in the paper . . . And, like lots of our lady friends, it isn't any pleasure to us to know a good story we can't tell! This one had to do with big contribution of a local plant to a very vital wartime industry. Maybe you can find it out.

Of course everybody here knows the Hosier Mill is making sox for the Army and Navy, the Whip & Collar Co. is making much needed harness and horse collars for the big farm job, the Cumberland is making Army Shirts, and Cedar Bluff Quarry is furnishing agricultural limestone essential to crop production.

Term-Pest In A Teapot

By Spoon River Sam

Associated Press Features

Talk has come up about the Fourth Term. The way some people act they've found something that would be worse than losing the war to the Axis.

Other folks just take the Fourth Term as a matter of course. They're already fretting over the Fifth Term.

It all proves that no matter what else is going on in the world, there's always a place for politics. I ain't saying what the place is.

It used to be quite an event for Mr. Roosevelt to be elected President. But I suppose it gets kind of monotonous to him after the first few times.

I reckon every mother does think her son some day will be elected President, but I'm sure none of 'em ever expect it to be habit forming.

If FDR ain't in the White House again, the new generation that's 12 years old is going to be mighty puzzled. After all, he's been there all their life. They just suppose it was planned that way.

Washington In Wartime Army Gets The Mail Through

By Jack Stinnett
Associated Press Features

Washington—For the first time the Army has set up a school for postoffice employees. Officially, it's the Army Postoffice School at Pennsylvania State Teachers College, West Chester, Pa. Every two weeks 125 men will be graduated from the six-weeks course of instruction in delivering Army mail. But there's more to it than that. It's really a postgraduate school, because it's open only to former postoffice employees now in the Army.

The Army's mail history is a long one. When George Washington's ragged little Continental army was playing hare and hounds with the British, the importance of mail to the troops was recognized. The general himself pleaded with the post to do better in getting letters from home to the men on the firing line. By the time World War I came around, the morale value of a message from mama or the girl friend was an established fact and the APO went to town. Compared to mail delivery problems of World War II, however, those of the first World War were simple. APO offices now circle the globe.

Not long ago, a big ferry command plane went down in the North Atlantic. It carried several thousand letters of Army mail. The plane sank in comparatively shallow water. Divers went down and brought up the mail sacks. It took weeks of work at the New York APO to decipher some of those water-smear addresses, but when it was all over, only a score or so of the letters had to be sent to the dead letter office.

When the Atlantic Clipper took a tragic plunge near Lisbon recently, it was carrying 176,000 V-mail letters. According to Col. W. A. Kenyon, deputy director of the Army Postal Service, within 46 hours the originals of those letters still held in New York had been re-run on V-mail film and were on their way to their destinations.

Originals of V-mail letters are never destroyed until word has been received that they have reached their destination. Thus, for the first time there's a method of assuring delivery, despite sinkings, bombings, fire and high water.

Good Health For Skin

By Wilda Camery, R.N., Community

Service Society of New York

When we hear an individual described as one whose skin is fresh, clean and blooming, we immediately think, "Aha, a healthy one!" Usually we're right. His personal hygiene usually includes regularity of bathing and washing with soap and water, good dietary habits, adequate and regular elimination, daily fresh air, exercise and sufficient rest. Immediately we become apostles of the creed which proclaims, "Beauty of skin comes from intelligent observance of the laws of health."

Soon we meet a teen-age youngster whose skin is dull and muddy, marked by ugly blotches. We impart to her our secret of skin health. She admits too many chocolate sundaes, too little sleep, sketchy washing and recent adoption of face powder. She recalls her skin troubles began when she substituted her own ideas of personal care for those taught by her mother. Eagerly she follows our advice and as she returns to good general health practices, her skin improves.

With increased confidence, we repeat our magic formula to another adolescent. He looks at us skeptically and assures us he has no habits to change. He has always lived as we advise. We search hurriedly through our knowledge of physiology and drag out this classic bit, "Don't worry, don't pick at your skin, continue with daily soap and water cleansing. You're simply passing through a phase. During adolescence our bodies have so many changes to make that for a time they often fail to adjust and one of the results is a skin eruption similar to yours."

Well, he keeps on with the magic formula, but he can't stop worrying. He can't keep his hands away from the eruptions. Finally we persuade him to see the family doctor.

The doctor examines the boy and finds an abscessed tooth. He explains that such infections hidden in various parts of the body often reveal themselves by skin blemishes. He continues saying that sometimes a skin disorder can be cured by endocrine therapy. Again treatment consists of allergy study to determine what specific food or foods may be the cause. On occasion, x-ray therapy is effectual.

Point Rationing Of Meat May End Greedy Hoarding

(By Associated Press)

A widespread feeling that point rationing of meat may end greedy buying by hoarders was expressed across the country Wednesday night, but it was sobered by realization that supplies still will be scant in many places.

Grocers, butchers, and city and rural housewives were interviewed in a nation-wide survey by the Associated Press.

"If the customers don't obtain meat for their tickets, hard feelings are bound to result," observed one chain store operator on the west coast, where meat has been particularly short. Another, whose shop is open only two hours a day, expressed belief that point-rationing of meat, "will eliminate all the frantic, greedy buying during the short time we are open."

A New York spokesman for a chain which operates thousands of stores, commented:

"We hope it will equalize distribution as it was designed to do. We aren't any more sure than anyone else that it will, but we hope so. Like everyone else, our supplies are short."

Restaurants have a big headache in store—that was the reaction of A. A. McVittie, former president of the National Restaurant association and now a member of its advisory committee.

"A meatloaf dinner is okay at home, but when people go out they want steaks or chops," McVittie said in Denver.

Film Star Lucille Ball, who keeps house for her husband, commented at Hollywood: "Sixteen points a week will give us more meat and butter than the troops are getting at Guadalcanal and in Africa. They're getting by; so can we."

FARM WOMEN SAVE RATIONING STAMPS

Don't use food ration stamps unless it is absolutely necessary, was the advice of Mrs. Ralph Scarce, president of the Kentucky Federation of Homemakers Clubs, in speaking to club representatives from 13 counties, meeting at Shelbyville.

There is little grumbling among rural homemakers concerning rationing, she said, because they are prepared for it, having canned, stored and dried fruits and vegetables last fall.

Every homemaker fortunate enough to have her own supply of home-canned foods should feel her responsibility to use it. Mrs. Scarce continued, rather than buy the so-called luxury foods, as pineapple, which require shipping space.

Defrosting Refrigerator

Defrost your electric refrigerator often enough so the frost on your refrigerating unit never is more than a quarter of an inch thick. If the frost becomes heavier than that, the unit's efficiency is impaired and the mechanical parts are subjected to undesirable strain.

the Pleasant Grove Baptist church, of which he was a member at the time of his death, having served his church as a deacon for many years.

He was twice married, first to Miss Susan A. Haile, to which union were born four children. Later he was married to Miss Ella Young who with three of the four children survive. Children are Cordis and Alva, of Colorado, and Lee, of Michigan; a sister, Mrs. Cora P. Pool, of Bainbridge; a brother, Oscar, of this county; eight grandchildren, and ten great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon from his home church with his pastor, the Rev. Olen Sisk in charge. Interment was in the Newsom cemetery.

Pallbearers were the other six deacons with whom he served so faithfully through the years.

"Anyone who has $500, or any multiple thereof, which is idle should make a War Loan subscription through his bank. These subscriptions, of course, continue to be handled without charge to either you or the government," the chairman said.

"Many persons do not understand the necessity for these quarterly campaigns," Mr. Severson said, "in view of the fact that War Bond sales continue to be satisfactory throughout the country. Government expenditures are currently at the rate of approximately $84 billion annually. Of this amount, $24 billion is raised by taxes, $12 billion by sale of War Savings Bonds, and the remaining $48 billion must be obtained through periodic drives, such as this."

Women In Time

Id, with a smile on her round young lips: "My brothers there; they are on the sea. They serve on the decks of the fighting ship! Strange that the war comes home to me?"

"I had I father, brother or friend, and give them all at my country's call! Now I have none to send, my share in the glorious war is small!"

the third arose with face aglow: "There are a hundred thousand strong— wherever my countryman meets the foe— my heart's in the war the whole day long!" —Edith Thomas

What It Means

Senate Post-War Unity Move

By John Grover
 Associated Press Features
 From the standpoint of possibilities, the bi-partisan Senate resolution calling for a permanent United Nations concord on post-war action is the most significant development on the capital scene in months.

It has a tremendous potential prosecution of the war. President Wilson's 14 points contributed no less than armed might to breaking the resistance of the Central Powers in 1918.

Indeed, Germany sought an armistice on the basis of the 14 points. Her formal request for cessation of hostilities asked that peace negotiations be conducted with the 14 points as the framework of the discussions.

The Atlantic Charter, a similar executive pronouncement of post-war aims, has so far failed to make such an impression in the enemy camp. Too clearly the world remembers that President Wilson's idealistic plans were scuttled by the vindictive Clemenceau in the Peace of Versailles, and by the failure of the U. S. Senate to authorize American membership in the League of Nations.

Sen. Harold H. Burton (R-Ohio), co-sponsor of the Senate resolution, sees the resolution as capable of "immeasurably strengthening the President's hand in the conduct of the war."

He points out that the world has learned that the U. S. executive branch and the Senate, which must approve treaties, do not necessarily work hand in glove. Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge and his dissidents proved that when the League of Nations plan was carved to pieces on the Senate floor.

Any executive pronouncement of post-war procedure would be taken with a grain of historical salt, so long as the threat of adverse Senate action exists. However, Sen. Burton supports the thought that an advance Senate commitment to joint action would lay the ghost of the fiasco that followed the Armistice.

Armed with this Senate commitment, the Executive could really throw unified weight of U. S. influence into the balance, conceivably as effectively as Wilson's 14 points impressed the enemy in the last war.

Aside from its potentially great value as a war weapon, sponsors of the resolution have carefully handled its introduction from the standpoint of practical politics.

Here are the mechanics of the thing, from Senate sources: It was agreed that a concrete start on postwar planning now is necessary. Note that none of the four bi-partisan sponsors are members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. That was deliberate. The disclaimer of Sen. Tom Connally (D-Texas) that the resolution "in its present form" has White House or Administration backing was also carefully planned.

If the resolution encounters unexpectedly tough sledding, it will not contribute a repudiation of the Administration or the committee, and leaves their hands free for further action. Its sponsors do not expect its adoption as it stands. One of its sponsors said its probable course will be a nap in committee, while Senate and public reaction jells. It is expected to be quiescent in a committee pigeonhole for two or three weeks.

Then "it will very likely be modified," according to one of its sponsors, to conform to the national reaction it evokes.

One thing is certain: The resolution was crystallization of a spontaneous Senate movement on both sides of the aisle. It is strictly bi-partisan and is not an attempt to get the Senate to approve something conceived by the Executive. Senator Burton says it's an effort at pre-armistice cooperation to avoid the errors after 1918, when Wilson tried to carry the ball alone and was tossed for a long loss.

Another thing is equally sure: Unless the revised version of the resolution seems certain to command more than a two-thirds majority, it will never see daylight again. Whatever emerges from the committee must show the world that the Senate is solidly behind it.

It is estimated that 75 percent of the farmers in Spencer county will grow hybrid corn.

Spring Is Time To Guard Against Fires In Timber

Frankfort, March 23—Importance of timber as a war material was emphasized today by K. G. McConnell, director of the Division of Forestry and coordinator of Civilian Defense Forest Fire Fighting activities, in an appeal for prevention of forest fires throughout Kentucky during the coming weeks.

Records of the Division of Forestry show that March, April and May are the bad fire months, particularly in the eastern and southern parts of the state, and also indicate a majority of field and forest fires are the result of carelessness in burning brush and in discarding lighted matches or burning tobacco. Almost every forest fire in Kentucky can be traced to carelessness.

Uses of wood for war purposes have increased materially as a result of recent developments such as the wooden "Mosquito" bomber the Royal Air Force has been using effectively. Shipment of food, supplies and war materials abroad has been increasing steadily and this requires additional wood for crating, boxes and other containers. Importance of wood in the war program makes the prevention of forest fires essential.

War-time importance of wood and timber was recognized by the 77th Congress when the Federal Sabotage Act was amended a few weeks ago to define "forest products" and standing timber suitable therefor as war material. This law makes willful injury or destruction of forests by fire punishable by a maximum fine of $10,000, or a maximum prison sentence of 30 years, or both.

Volunteer forest fire fighters are now being trained in counties of the State by the Division of Forestry, as a part of the Civilian Defense program. These units will work with an supplement the Division's forest fire-fighting organization. In parts of the State where the division has no organization, the FFFS units will carry the whole burden of suppressing forest fires.

UNITED STATES TR

The 2nd War Loan Starts April 12

13 billion dollars must be raised!

THE GOVERNMENT of the United States is asking us to lend it 13 billion dollars in the next few weeks. We can do it. And we must do it. Every American must realize the truth:

In this, our toughest war, we've made a good start. We've trained a lot of men—made a lot of weapons—built a lot of ships.

But it's only a start. No man or woman among us would contend for a single instant that we're doing enough now to win this war!

We've Got to Build More!

We broke all records building 8 million tons of shipping last year. But grim-faced Army and Navy men will tell you that the 18 MILLION tons we're building this year still won't be enough!

We've Got to Fight More!

From now till this war is won, America must be on the offensive. In ever-increasing numbers, your sons, brothers, husbands must go into actual battle. Our losses have already begun to mount, and they will not grow less.

And We've Got to Buy More War Bonds!

Sure we're all buying War Bonds now. But we've got to help pay for our increased fighting and building . . . We've got to match, as best we can, the sacrifice of those Americans who are toiling and sweating on a dozen battlefronts—with the bloodiest yet to come. The blunt fact is this: to keep our war machine going, we've got to dig up 13 billion extra dollars this month. 13 billion dollars over and above our regular War Bond buying!

In the next few weeks you may be visited by one of the thousands of volunteers who are contributing their time and effort to this Drive. But don't wait for him. Make up your mind now that before this drive is over, you're going to march right down to your nearest bank, Post Office or place where they sell War Bonds, and do your duty, and don't ever forget this: in doing your duty, you're doing yourself one of the biggest favors of your life!

For United States War Bonds are the greatest investment in the world—bar none. They're investments tailored to fit your particular situation. And they give you the chance of a lifetime to order and get the kind of world you want to live in after this war. Every cent you put in War Bonds now will help to guarantee plenty of peacetime jobs making peace-living for every one of us.

For your Country's sake—for your own sake—invest all you can!

There Are 7 Different Types of U. S. Government Securities—Choose The Ones Best Suited For You

Owners Must Keep Dogs And Chickens Out Of Gardens

Police Instructed To Enforce City Ordinances To Protect Home Food Plots

"Dogs and chickens must not interfere with the growing of Victory Gardens," was the sentiment expressed at Monday night's session of City Council, attended by the mayor and all councilmen. Instructions were given the police department to kill dogs found running at large and to enforce the ordinance forbidding the running at large of chickens.

The matter of requesting presence here of Military Police at week-ends was discussed and Police Chief Jones said the police department would make a determined effort to maintain the peace and enforce the law against all infractions by civilians, as well as those in the military service, before asking aid of military authorities.

The mayor read a letter from the State Highway Department relative to effecting a trade for the city's lot and building, now being used as a highway garage, was authorized to continue correspondence with the view of consummating the arrangement.

At request of the County Health Department, the city's appropriation in support of that agency was renewed for the next fiscal year, beginning next July. The appropriation is $225, paid quarterly.

Analysis of the city water showed freedom from pollution.

his father's death, in 1930.

The candidate for Governor has a length record as a public official. He served as county attorney of Carroll county, from 1921 until late in 1930, when he resigned to become a member of the State Highway Commission.

He served as a member of the commission from 1930 until January 1936. With the election of Governor Keen Johnson, he was appointed chairman of the commission, in January 1940.

During his first tenure on the road body, Donaldson served as a member of a committee which handled details of financing and building the present system of Kentucky toll bridges.

Donaldson was educated in the public schools of Carroll county and later attended Virginia Military Institute, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Centre College and Cumberland University where he received his law degree, in 1913.

He immediately entered the practice of law with his father and one of his brothers. The firm continues today under the name of G. A. and J. L. Donaldson. In addition to his banking and legal connections, Donaldson also supervises the operation of three large farms in Carroll county.

Donaldson married his childhood sweetheart, Miss Jessie Hill, of Carrollton, in 1913, the year of his graduation from law school and his entry into the general practice of law. They do not have any children. He is a member of the Carrollton Presbyterian Church and has been active in the business and civic affairs of Carroll county. He has served as treasurer for the Carroll County Chapter of the American Red Cross since 1916, and holds that position today.

Donaldson, in addition to his brother, G. A. Donaldson, has a brother, Dr. Allen Donaldson, both of Carrollton. Donaldson is the youngest member of his family.

The maternal death rate in Great Britain has fallen since 1906 from 4.27 to less than 3 per thousand births.

The War Department citation for Private McCormick reads: "Francis M. McCormick, private, Infantry, United States Army, for extraordinary heroism on January 10, 1943, at Guadalcanal, Solomon Islands. Private McCormick volunteered for a patrol, the mission of which was to eliminate enemy resistance in a vital spot. Heavy machine gun fire was met when the patrol neared the enemy occupied area. With utter disregard of the danger to himself, Private McCormick, accompanied by another member of the patrol, continued to advance and inflict casualties on the enemy. After an order to withdraw was given, not heard by these two men, Private McCormick's companion was wounded by cross fire from enemy machine guns. He rescued his companion, under heavy enemy fire, by dragging him 100 yards to safety. Private McCormick was, by direction of the President, awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, March 1, 1943, by Lieut. General Milard F. Harmon.

An Important Announcement

This is to announce officially that this Cooperative has been sponsored and organized by the Eastern Dark Fired Tobacco Growers' Association for the purpose of processing and dehydrating vegetables and fruits.

This Cooperative has been approved and authorized by the Department of Agriculture of the U. S. Government to operate as a food processor and the Government will purchase our entire output this year for the Armed Forces and Lend-Lease purposes.

The operation of these food plants offer an opportunity for the farmers in this section and other areas to make an individual and collective contribution to the Food Requirements of our Government. Contracts are now being offered growers of sweet potatoes with a GUARANTEED MINIMUM price, of $1.15 per bushel. These potatoes to be dehydrated and immediately delivered to the Government under contract.

Farmers interested may contact their County Agent's office, or any office of the Eastern Dark Fired Tobacco Growers' Association.

Large plants will be built and operated at Springfield, Tennessee and Hopkinsville, Kentucky, with receiving stations at Clarksville, Tennessee, Russellville, Kentucky and other points.

This Cooperative is dedicated to the immediate Food Demands of our Government and for the benefit of those who wish to produce food in this area.

Paducah Newsman Is Candidate For Lieut. Governor

Paducah, March 31—Henry Ward, Paducah newspaperman and State Representative of McCracken county since 1934, today announced as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant-Governor.

Ward was the majority leader in the House in the 1942 sessions and was assistant leader in 1940. He sponsored the TVA enabling act in 1942, and, at a 1937 special session, the REA act through which the rural electrification cooperatives in Kentucky have been formed.

Ward expressed himself as opposed to outright repeal of the State income tax in 1944, but favors modifying it if revenues continue to exceed requirements for essential State services. He said he will advocate increasing the State equalization fund for schools to the full 10 percent allowed by the constitution, and pledged his support to the campaign to secure federal aid for education.

Among other planks in his platform are: Creation of a State agency to aid in industrial development of Kentucky and utilization of its resources; elimination of rural roadhouses, and increased efforts by the State to enforce liquor laws in local option territory.

As one of the most active members of the House during his five terms, Ward has been the sponsor of scores of bills now law, including acts for revision of the Kentucky Statutes, anti-loan shark legislation, the bill creating a division of markets in the Department of Agriculture, and the voting machine act.

He has been a pioneer in the campaign to reduce tolls on Kentucky bridges and to bring about their freeing. A Paducah newspaperman since 1928, he has been city editor and a daily columnist of The Paducah Sun-Democrat several years. He is a native of McCracken county, and he and Miss Gladys Lindsey, Paducah, were married in 1934. They have a 7-year-old daughter, Patricia.

Discussing his campaign platform, Ward said: "The 10 years I have participated in State government have taught me that the State cannot maintain essential expenditures and at the same time reduce taxes. Therefore, it is my belief it would be unwise for the legislature to vote outright repeal of the State income tax in 1944. However, I agree that it is unwise for the State to continue building a surplus."

Farmers To Make Own ACP Reports

In step with wartime's demand for greater personal responsibility, farmers throughout Kentucky this year will report their performance under the Agricultural Conservation Program, said M. D. Royle, State Chairman of Kentucky Agricultural Adjustment Agency. Last year, reporters employed by local Agricultural Conservation Associations determined performance on the farm.

"Through this new system we expect to save man hours, tires and gasoline," stated Mr. Royle. "Farmers will report the acreages of war crops and special crops and extent of production practices carried out on their farms. They will be expected to make measurements where acreages have not been ascertained. Careful estimates will be acceptable for the acreages of corn, wheat and most production practices."

Mr. Royle pointed out that farmers should determine their crop acreages before the crops are planted.

"In making their measurements, farmers should exchange services with their neighbors," he said.

Community committeemen of the AAA will assist farmers in preparing their performance reports.

Put The Sun To Work?

Some of these days we may be using a "new type" of electricity—solar energy harnessed from the sun. The average intensity of solar energy in the United States is high enough that the energy falling on one square yard of roof would more than operate all household appliances, including lights—if we only could devise a method of harnessing it. This energy, if harnessed, also would be sufficient to operate the machinery in most manufacturing plants.

No More Doctors To Be Taken From Kentucky During 1943

Louisville, March 30—Expressing the belief that there was too much "unnecessary concern" about an actual or potential doctor shortage, Dr. E. L. Henderson, chairman of the Fifth Service Command procurement and assignment service, said yesterday the service is watching the situation carefully and even now is making postwar plans for more equitable distribution of physicians.

His comment was in connection with the Office of War Information's statement that there may be "slow deterioration" in the nation's health because of an acute lack of doctors in many communities.

Dr. Henderson said: "Certainly there is no cause for alarm over a doctor shortage in Kentucky and we don't anticipate any future alarming shortage."

He agreed that in some localities, particularly in rural areas, there is—and always has been—a scarcity of physicians. Doctors and dentists who have gone into the armed forces via the procurement and assignment service, the organization of doctors delegated to obtain physicians for the Army and Navy, have been drawn mostly from the thickly populated areas where there has been an over-supply of physicians.

Kentucky is one of several states which have filled their 1942-43 quotas and will not be called on to furnish any more doctors this year, Dr. Henderson added.

The procurement and assignment service recently relocated about 150 doctors in Kentucky to relieve inequitable distribution, he continued. Some of these were from out of the State.

Diving Aviator Helps Put Out Fire

Chickasha, Okla. (AP)—An aviator, identity unknown, dived on the grade school house at Verden and undoubtedly saved the lives of a number of children who might have been trapped by flames that were consuming the building.

The pilot apparently saw the smoke coming from the roof of the building. He dived, to attract attention. Softball players on the school ground looked up at the plane, saw smoke pouring from the building and sounded the fire alarm.

The 261 children in the building reached safely only a few minutes ahead of the spreading flames. The plane flew onward.

Watch Electrical Cords

Your electrical cords are among your most precious possessions, since the war makes it almost impossible to obtain new ones for home use. So treat them accordingly. Never let them become snarled and tangled, and never let them rub against any sharp or harsh substance which may remove the insulation. Never yank a cord out of its connecting plug by tugging at the cord itself. Grasp the connecting unit carefully and disengage it gently from the wall, floor or ceiling plug.

Increase In Stock Raising Calls For Larger Feed Crops

Every possible acre of feed crops should be grown this year to provide for the large numbers of livestock on Kentucky farms, declares Dean Thomas P. Cooper of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington.

Hog production will be increased by more than a half-million head this season, and there are record numbers of cattle, sheep and chickens in the state. This means that more feed must either be produced here or brought in from other states. The increasing difficulty of transportation makes it important that every effort be made to grow more feed at home, says Dean Cooper.

Members of the Experiment Station staff suggest that the production of corn be increased approximately 10 percent this year, so that eight to ten million bushels will be added to the average annual production. Increasing the acreage, planting high-yielding hybrid varieties and fertilizing as liberally as possible are the means by which more corn can be produced. It is suggested that corn be planted where small grains winter-killed and that idle or fields where stands of pasture and hay crops are poor be used for corn.

Farmers also should consider sowing lespedeza, sudan grass, soybeans, can and other feed crops, including oats this spring and rye next fall. There is still lespedeza included for summer pasture. Lespedeza should be seeded on old pastures and small grains. Soybeans make good hay. Sudan grass is recommended as an emergency pasture and hay crop. Sorghum may be used for roughage. Old pastures may be stimulated by top-dressing with phosphate and lime.

British Salvage Bulls And Beer From Deep Sea

London (AP)—British salvage operators are reaping from the ocean bed a rich harvest of supplies and war materials.

By far their biggest recent haul is the 13,000 tons of steel already cut away from the fire-gutted training ship Caledonia, the former liner Majestic, now being broken up on the floor of the Firth of Forth.

Booby recovered runs from bulls to beer to soap, including army trucks, motorcycles, flour, cloth, silk, tobacco, canned food and nickel.

One ship's hold was full of packages of soap. The cartons had rotted and the soap had jelled into a gooey mass. Salvagers scooped it out and sold it to British laundry operators for more than its original price.

Another ship, carrying half a million bottles of whiskey, founded on the West Highlands coast providing local Scotsmen with a windfall, but there still were ample supplies for the salvagers to recover.

Huge Electrical Use

None of our modern war weapons is more important than electricity, for without electricity most of these weapons could not be made. Consider aluminum, for instance. The Aluminum Company of America plant at Alcoa, in East Tennessee, consumes more electricity than Knoxville, Chattanooga, Nashville and Memphis combined—four cities with an aggregate population of approximately 750,000.

Discuss Box Cars To Haul Troops

Washington.—The Association of American Railroads has called a special meeting of member road executives at Chicago, Friday, to discuss proposals for building about 1,500 passenger carrying box cars for transportation of troops.

Railroad officials here have been discussing this matter with War Department officials several weeks. The cars would be so constructed that they could be used for troop sleepers and converted to freight cars after the war.

The War Department has been interested in this possibility for many months, but is said to be unwilling to finance construction of the cars. Some railroads have experimented with conversion of existing box cars into troop sleepers, but an insufficient number is available.

Concrete Vaults For Burial Increasing In Popularity With War

War has brought concrete vaults for burials into widespread popularity, statistics of leading manufacturers indicate their use having spread from populated areas, in which the scheme discussed some weeks ago, have been the dominating factor for years, to smaller communities.

Concrete is held to be the ideal material for manufacturing burial vaults, for permanence, and the vaults are made of precast measured and tested ingredients whose properties and strength are as dependable as those of metal alloy, it is said.

In the new and modern plan of the Katterjohn Concrete Vault Co., Paducah, is made the seal type of concrete vault known as the "Bronze" vault. Many funeral directors in Kentucky, Southern, Illinois, Southeast Missouri and Tennessee are using this distinctive vault.

Greens, Lettuce, Onions

For all of these the soil should be well prepared and excessive fertilizer. The "general" fertilizer scheme discussed some weeks ago is a good start, but extra nitrogen should be provided by dressing with poultry manure, a bushel to 300 feet. Nitrate soda and sulfate of ammonia have gone to war.

Greens—Among the so-called "baggage greens" are Siberian chard, Southern Curled mustard, rape and Tendergreen. For the row of row 1 ounce of seed is needed. The rows may be as close as 15 inches. The other is Bloomsdale spinach, but 100 feet of row, 2 ounces of seed is needed.

Lettuce—Although it appears to be the dearest wish of so many gardeners to produce head lettuce, the leaf sorts should be means be ignored, as leaf lettuce comes much earlier than head sorts. In fact, a head variety may be used for both, growing seed now, a half-ounce 100 feet, and as it is used, cutting to 8 inches. A better way, to grow head lettuce, is to have 4-leaf plants, now, as they will make heads before the warm weather comes. Grand Rapids is most reliable. The semi-head sorts are Simpson and Hansel, but the really fine heading sorts are New York and the Bibb, the best of all lettuce.

Onions—By far the most commonly grown onions are produced from "yellow sets," handled by all grocers and seedsmen. Planting distances vary, but if they are "sown," 2 to 3 quarts 100 feet, some may be used in, thinning to 3 inches to the row for winter-keeping.

Another onion coming to the market is that produced from slips. These are to be had in all the "Spanish" and Bermuda varieties as well as the less showy better keeping sort, American Prietaker. The spacing may be from 3 to 5 inches, and in the soil, the latter spacing is too wide. These onions are really grown to maturity, but they cannot be kept from White

Office of Civilian Defense

Cleveland, Ohio

March 22, 1943

My dear Editor:

As you know, I have resigned as Regional Director of the Office of Civilian Defense to accept a commission in the Army of the United States.

I leave today to assume my new duties, but before doing so I wish to express my sincere appreciation of the cooperation you have given to this office and also to State and local Defense Councils. By devoting space constantly to Civilian Defense, your newspaper has helped tremendously to stimulate all-out activity on the Home Front. I believe very firmly that a program so vast as Civilian Defense, encompassing not only air raid precautions but also all kinds of civilian war services, such as share-the-ride, manpower problems, and rationing, can be made to operate successfully only through a continuous flow of news and feature stories that will maintain interest and lead to greater individual effort on the part of civilians.

You have been helping admirably in this respect. Your community and your country have cause to be grateful.

I hope that you will accord my successor the same generous cooperation you gave me. And I trust that you will continue to devote space and attention to Civilian Defense so as to keep our Home Front strong in support of our military forces.

Cordially yours,
Dan T. Moore,

Women Asked To Aid Campaign For Crippled Children

Co-operation of Kentucky's club women in the Easter drive of the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children has been solicited by Mrs. Richard C. Williams, Somerset, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

"Last year your co-operation in the annual fund raising campaign of the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children helped remove 1,545 indigent children from the Commission's waiting list," Mrs. Williams informed club presidents.

"The fact of our being at war has not lessened the number of crippled children in Kentucky nor their need for treatment; so the Society has decided that it must carry on its Easter Campaign, a membership enrollment combined with the sale of Easter seals. Undoubtedly you and members of your club will be asked to help, and I hope you will answer the call.

"Not only does the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children provide funds to aid the State's program of clinic service and hospital care for little cripples, but it hopes soon to expand its work. Plans are being made to provide better educational facilities for crippled children and to assist other agencies with vocational guidance and placements of older cripples. These are two projects in which we, as members of an organization concerned with post-war betterment, should be vitally interested.

"I am glad to endorse the work being carried on for crippled children in our state."

In many countries the drive is sponsored by the local woman's club with one of their members as chairman.

The Eastern Drive is scheduled for April 10 through April 25. The goal is $40,000.

Dehydrating Plant For Vegetables At Hopkinsville

(By Associated Press)

Hopkinsville—Plans for installation of plants to dehydrate sweet potatoes and other vegetables have been announced here by the Eastern Dark-Fired Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association.

One plant will be located in Hopkinsville and the other in Springfield, Tenn., the announcement said. A subsidiary to be known as the Kentucky-Tennessee Foods Cooperative, has been formed to operate the two units. Incorporation papers have been filed at Nashville, Tenn., with the same directors and officers of the parent organization heading the subsidiary.

The old Mogul wagon plant, a two-story building, has been purchased by the new cooperative to house the unit here. The plant is expected to begin operations with start of the sweet potato harvesting season, late this summer.

Only sweet potatoes will be processed at first, but dehydration of other vegetables also is planned. Officers said the government has contracted to purchase the entire output of dehydrated sweet potatoes.

Charles Crabtree, manager of the tobacco cooperation here since its organization in 1933, will manage the processing plant.

Silver Replacing Copper

A good many hundreds of years ago Pizarro, the great Spanish explorer and conqueror, found himself in Peru with no iron to shoe his horses. He shoeed them with silver. Now silver is taking the place of tin, copper and other scarce, war-necessary metals in electrical apparatus. It is slightly more expensive than the other metals, but in many instances it is proving more efficient and therefore economical.

Rennell Island, 110 miles south of Guadalcanal, is the southernmost tip of the 900-mile Solomon chain.
